DUTCHMEN AGAIN CHEER THE ONE LEGGED ROOSTER,

pho Brings Up the Rear of the Procession at the Annual Dinner-President schurman Talks of the Wickedness of Spending Millions Preparing for War.

Washington Irving received his due honor from the St. Nicholas Society Delmonico's last night. Despite the fact that he has only one leg and is a joke as a weathercock he has a history, that rooster, and the descendants of the original real estate sharps of Manhattan are delighted to stand up and cheer him at the annual Pass or Easter festival.

He typifies the days when the folks who came over from the land of dykes and canals to trade with the red brother ran things on this island and Uncle Piet Stuyvesant used to stand down at the Battery and swear valorously at the snooping English. One of the reasons the St. Nicholas Society was organized seventy-four years ago was to keep the pushing Yankee in his place. To-day the tradition is kept up in the jests that the descendants of the old Dutchmen make about the people from New England. who came over from the land of dykes make about the people from New England.

The Easter dinner was opened with the silver formalities that the customs of the society demand. The bugler, in a doublet of range slashed with black, dark blue knee breeches with broad black stripes, white stockings and pumps with bows of orange ribbon, sounded mess call in the corridor. where the members and their guests assembled. Behind the bugler marched four negro boys in the old Dutch costumewide white collars, lace ruffs at the wrist bugler's. After them with stiff dignity merhorn, who presided last night. Finally came the members and the guests two by two, with the celebrated rooster bringing up the rear.

Their squatty arms whirled furiously. Over the head table hung the ancient flag of Holland and lengths of orange and blue bunting ran all around. The rooster occupied the place of honor before Vice-President Schermerhorn, his bill pointing due East. Irving presented him to the society in 1848. He had him from Mrs. Elizabeth Mackie, who got him from the old Dutch Town Hall where it pointed the winds in the first years of the last century.

With Mr. Schermerhorn at the main table were President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell University, Talcott Williams, editor of the Philadelphia Press; John S. Wise, Harold M. Anderson, president of the Amen Corner; Austen G. Fox, William H. McElroy and the Consul-General of the Netherlands at this port, John R. Planten.

With an inclination of his black chapeau Schermerhorn made a speech about the ancient glories of the St. Nicholas Society, opining that the original Dutch hadn't always lived up to the society but that the society was doing the best it could to live down the original Dutch. However, the Yankee need not take comfort from that observation. Let him go get a reputation before he essayed mixing with a quantity of real descendents. Then Mr. Schermerhorn introduced President Schurman had very little indeed to say about the old time or new time Dutch but a great deal about the cost of living, the uses of the income tax and the wickedness of spending hundreds of millions annually for war and preparation for war.

"The cost of living," said President Schurman, "is a theme which is receiving more attention to-day than our generation has ever given it. This consideration has ever given it. This consideration has been provoked by a number of circumstances, among which the still continuing depression of business, the general reduction of incomes, the increase in the number of unemployed, the contrast between vast inherited fortunes and a bare living wage, the rapid growth of our national expenditures, and now the agitation over the revision of the tariff.

"So far as taxation raises the cost of living to the poor and the persons of small means, it is devoutly to he hoped that some way may be found of throwing the burden on shoulders better able to carry it. A tax on mortgages, for instance is a bad tax, because the money lender compels the borrower to pay it as a condition of the loan. A tax on rents falls ultimately on the tenant, not on the landlord. There are taxes, however, which cannot be shifted on to others. This is true both of the inheritance tax and the income tax.

"As the inheritance tax is peculiarly scapted to the needs and circumstances of the States it would be a fiscal calamity to them if the Federal Government should resort to it as an ordinary source of revenue. SICK MILK FROM FINE FARM

NATHAN STRAUS TELLS THE ALDERMEN ABOUT IT. Pretty Clear What Farm He Meant, and

He Says the Health Board Found Tuberculosis Germs in the Milk-He Urges the Pasteurization Ordinance. Nathan Straus appeared yesterday

efore the Aldermen's committee on laws and legislation to urge the passing of the ordinance providing for the pas-teurization of all milk sold in this city coming from dairies whose herds have not been certified by the Board of Health to be free from tuberculosis. At the hearing Mr. Straus, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for Mayor, said: There is no office that this country could offer to me that I would accept but that of Congressman and I would like to go to Congress for a term for the purpose of makigng this fight for pure milk a national one."

He said that much had been done in improving the conditions of the dairies that does not make the milk absolutely safe. He said:

I was offered a supply of milk for my laboratory from one of the most perfec dairy farms in the whole country, owned by a wealthy gentleman who is known from one end of the nation to the other. Of course I eagerly entered into a contract to take the whole output of this big dairy. Imagine my consternation when the report of the Board of Health laboratory showed that this milk was full of tuberculosis. The milk was from a dairy where no expense was spared to have perfect cleanliness. What then can one expect from brdinary dairies? Such an experience as this shows necessity for your ordinance. There is only one way to combat the constant danger of infection, and that is to pasteurize the milk. Go on with inspection. As the Medical Record says, "Inspection will make the milk more fit for pasteurization." But don't depend upon inspection

The city is paving millions to support hospitals. It is time for the city to do something to keep people out of hospitals by seeing to it that the 2,000,000 quarts of milk coming into this city daily from 40,000 dairy farms does not contain the living organisms that produce tuberculosis, typhoid and scarlet fevers, diphtheria and nummer complaint.

Pasteurize the milk which is the main use of these diseases and you will not nly out the death rate in half .. you will not only save thousands of families from unsave money for the city by reducing the drain upon its purse for hospital mainte-Pasteurization of all non-certified nance. milk will be a sound financial investment.

I have done as much as one man and on urse can do to save the lives of the children of this city. Now I must ask the city government to take up the work. I am supplying pasteurized milk to some 2,500 babies a day. But every baby in the city is en-titled to such milk. No growing child or adult ought to be exposed to thedangers of for one man, and I am not Mich enough to assure its continuance.

Alderman Schloss, a member of the committee, contended that the task of dealing with farms which house cattle afflicted with tuberculosis was too big a one for a municipality to undertake and that the inspection of the farms should be left to either the national or the State authorities. Alderman Walsh insisted that the Board of Health had ample power to cope with the conditions complained to cope with the conditions complained of by Mr. Straus. At the close of the hearing Chairman Redmond stated that the committee would consider without delay the arguments which had been heard and would report within a week or two.

Additions to the Literature on the Day Before Election.

The campaign literature in the Trinity parish election was added to yesterday by a statement sent out by the Rev. W W. Bellinger, vicar of St. Agnes's Chapel, urging the voters of his congregation to vote the administration ticket to-day. He gives these reasons:

To support your former vicar and present rector, Dr. Manning, and to manifest our loyalty to a man of such wide sympathies and high, noble ideals; to give just rebuke to those who, partly from ignorance and partly from malice, have been attacking vestry have for future work and developproved of the plans of the rector and vestr when they were submitted to him for his Godly counsel and advice, and who-for is sympathetic and cordial approval of Dr. Manning also issued a message to the corporators referring to the pamphle entitled "The Case of St. John's Chapel," entitled The Case of St. John's Chaple, published by those eposed to the plans of the rector and vestry. He said that pending the temporary injunction obtained by the opponents of the administration he must refrain under advice of counsel from discussing matters affecting the injunction, but that at the first moment when with propriety he could ment when with propriety he could speaks he should show that there was no foundation for the statements of the faction which is now at law with Trinity.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly, like dandruff but heavier—although I wash my head once a week always. It never gave me any trouble such as itching or smarting and I never noticed any falling of the hair. Butshortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use a dandruff oure to no effect whatever. And I used a quinine preparation quite freely which did no good either. Whether it was the effect of the fever or some scalp disease I don't know, but I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. It got so bad that I didn't need to comb it any more—in fact I was afraid to. My brother, who had used the Cuticura Remedies with satisfaction, advised me to try them. After using two cakes of Cuticura Boap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and nearly a box of Cuticura Cintment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas six months ago I had my mind made up to be bald in a short time. I will have a photograph taken later and send you one. William F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 7 and 21, '08."

MARGARET ILLINGTON WEEPS AT GEORGE JUNIOR REPUBLIC. Printing Shop, Gymnasium and Hotel to Be Erected This Year.

ITHACA, April'12.—Three new buildings are to be added to the George Junior Re-public at Freeville this summer, making the institution much larger and providing more accommodations for citizens. A new printing shop, at an estimated cost of $7,000, was voted by the executivecom-mittee of the board of trustees, and the erection of a new gymnasium and a hotel tors to the Republic is also planned. Work on the printing shop will begin this week and all three buildings will be finished this year: The trustees have called on Supt. Derdetermination to leave the stage for a life of domesticity.

"I had hoped to withdraw quietly and without fuss," said the actress. "This publicity is awful. Why can't I live like other women? Must my life be always pried into?"

Miss Illington broke down and wept as she denied that she had said that she wanted eleven babies a year. "It's all wretchedly untrue," she said. "And I never said anything of the sort. It is The new botel will be large enough to

TRIED TO BLOW UP FIREWORKS. Fuses Run to Several Buildings of a Plant Fall to Carry Flames.

An investigation made by the police of the Fourth precinct of a fire which did $200 damage to the office of the Port Richmond Fireworks Company at the foot of Lexington avenue, Jersey City, on Sunday night disclosed a plot to destroy a series of small buildings constituting the plant.

ground from the office to the other buildings. They falled to carry the flames, and the firemen had little difficulty in confining the blaze to the structure where

Edward Simmons, the watchman, saw three men run away from the plant when he sent in an alarm.
